

The International Center for Materials Research (ICMR) at UC Santa Barbara announces its International Research Fellowship competition for the 2010 academic year.

ICMR International Research Fellowships support research visits to non-US laboratories for graduate students, post-docs and junior faculty affiliated with US Institutions. Typical durations are a few weeks - 3 months, with award amounts for travel and expenses of up to $5000; we anticipate that the applicant will continue to receive their regular salary support from their home institution. Conference travel is not supported.

How to Apply:

Application materials, consisting of a 1-page description of the collaboration, emphasizing the nature and motivation for the international component, a short CV and (for students and postdocs) a letter of support from the advisor, should be sent to the ICMR Program Coordinator, Jennifer Ybarra (ybarra@icmr.ucsb.edu). Applications are welcome at any time, but should be received by March 24th for fullest consideration. Our funding structure prioritizes collaborations with countries that are not in Western Europe. If you have any questions, please contact Jennifer Ybarra at Ybarra@icmr.ucsb.edu.
